After the update, it's a new game. Still WIP now (buggy too) but is going to support lot of features missing in other multiplayer shooters for Vive: a better locomotion (it seems comfortable too), a better weapon management (inspired by H3VR), classess of soldiers, a better graphics.. After the update, it's a new game. Still WIP now (buggy too) but is going to support lot of features missing in other multiplayer shooters for Vive: a better locomotion (it seems comfortable too), a better weapon management (inspired by H3VR), classess of soldiers, a better graphics.. I understand that this game is still in early access, but it seems to have several fundamental flaws. The biggest flaws I take issue with are the wonky controls and for me personally, the fact that the game assumes you are only 5'8". I'm quite a bit taller than that and this makes it very difficult to use the game's weapons in any effective way when the avatar's shoulders comes out of where my sides are. Not to mention how disconcerting this is. The developers need to work on scale and overall weapon handling. Maybe take a page from Raw Data and let you calibrate your height when setting up the game.. Abandonware.. Not good yet. Like others have said, it has potential. But right now it is not good or fun. There is absolutely no structure to the game. You are plopped down into an open space, given some guns and turrets then baddies come at you. The controls are bad, the guns track badly, the reloading mechanism make you want to just forget that the game has guns to play with, it is so low rez that you cannot tell what is going on. This is alpha state, maybe even pre alpha. Give the developers time to actually produce a game and not just proof of concept for friends to play, then maybe it will be worth selling to people.. No updates in yonks - it's dead.
